CHANCELLOR'S MESSAGE

Well done!

On behalf of the Council of RMIT University, I'm pleased to congratulate you, our new graduates. This is a worthy moment for you to pause and to feel some well-earned pride.

It's always been my perspective that we have an obligation to contribute to the future of the communities we share. When we have been fortunate enough to receive an education, our capacity to contribute becomes even more significant.

This means that the expertise you have attained in your chosen fields of endeavour is both an opportunity and a responsibility. I hope that you share RMIT's determination to level the playing field and to make knowledge and skills accessible to more people.

As RMIT alumni, you join an international community of experts across an array of disciplines, and I'm confident that you will find opportunities to open doors for others.

Throughout your careers, look for moments to provide support with generosity and to share the wisdom you've learned. Always remember the spark that set you on your path to graduation so that you can encourage others to find theirs.

Wishing you all the very best for the future.
